ORIENTATION PROGRAMME

As an alumni activity, the Department of Economics organized an Orientation Programme titled "EMPOWERING BEGINNINGS: ECONOMICS DEPARTMENT ORIENTATION 2023-24" on August 12, 2023. It was an honour to have Ms. Vamika Darhel, a distinguished alumna of the college, as the guest speaker for the event. Ms. Darhel shared her valuable experiences and insights with the incoming batch of first-year students, alongside the dedicated efforts of second and third-year students.

The primary objective of the orientation session was to warmly welcome the new students into the college community. We provided them with an overview of the college environment, introduced them to faculty members, and highlighted the various extracurricular activities available. Additionally, the session aimed to foster connections between the freshmen and their seniors, promoting a sense of camaraderie from the start.

During the event, second-year students played a pivotal role by presenting a detailed PowerPoint presentation covering important aspects such as faculty introductions, extracurricular activities, and special initiatives like the Honesty Store and Bedenomics, our economics newsletter. Ms. Darhel had the pleasure of sharing her research papers and achievements in agriculture and horticulture, emphasizing the importance of extracurricular involvement for personal growth and success.

The outcomes of the orientation program were highly positive. It provided valuable insights for the incoming students as they embark on their college journey. Ms. Darhel's presence at the event was well-received, and her inspirational journey left a lasting impact on the students. The program successfully fostered a strong sense of community within the department, setting the stage for meaningful collaborations and lasting friendships among students.
